

Baby James
By Katelyn Daniels

A fat little body
With a head full of hair;
A smile of contentment
You're willing to share.

Your belly is so chubby
You can't even crawl,
So you roll over and over
Like a red rubber ball.

With your curious brown eyes
You're cuter than cute,
And when you're unhappy
We know you're not mute!

My adorable James
Full of laughter and love,
You're sweet little soul
Is like a pure white dove.

Third Prize Winner of the 2011 Friends of Baxter Memorial Library Writing Contest ~
Middle School Poetry Category